The metter, in fact, bears appears that a dray and three horses, on the appearance of being a cold-blooded murder. which were three Chinamen, with another on foot driving the team, were proceeding to the diggings, when they were stopped by five aborigines at a place called Black Flat. about thirty-three miles from Southport. The blacks demanded a bag of flour and a ditors). bag of rice, which were given to them, and they plunged into the jungle. They returned, however, a little later, and suddenly attacked the Chinamen, killing two of them with fearful blows on the head, and leaving the other two in a senseless and apparently lifeless condition. The affair naturally aroused great indignation in Southport, and on the 17th ult. a public meeting was held to consider the best means of suppressing such outrages and to procure conviction of the murderers. Most of the principal Chinese residents were present and took part in the proceedings. Messrs, SUN WAR. LOONG and PING QUE offered

A resolution was ultimat. ly proposed by an English, seconded by a Chineso, resident and ananimously carried, calling upon the Government to take o'clock p.m., on Friday next:immediate and extraordinary steps to punish the Black Flat murderers and guard against such outrages in the future. The Government Resident, in reply, said he quite agreed with the meeting, and stated that he would forward the resolution, with a strong recommendation for its favourable consideration. to the Minister at Adelaide. Ho added that violence. At the same time the Resident drew attention to the fact, that if the Chinese had carried revolvers they could easily have driven off the blacks. The result of heretofore. this auggestion has been that the Chinese who have to travel in the Northern Territory against the blacks.

It is rather interesting to note that Mr. Son WAR Loons, when speaking at the public meeting above referred to, made use of the very same arguments about the aborigines that we have used in reference to Chinese criminals in Victoria Gaol. He said that in the case of a recent outrage upon a Chinaman, the natives who committed it "had been identified and re-"ceived for a few months in gaol, which "meant they were well fed and kept at "the public expense, and he doubted if "comfortable quarters and good living " was nunishment to a blackfellow." fortable quarters would not be appreciated by an Australian aborigine as they are by Chinese criminals; we doubt whether all the comforts of civilisation would compendate a black for loss of liberty. The influential proprietors of the Karatsu coal mines have evidently proved successful in their endeavours to obtain Government permission to ship their out-put direct to foreign ports, as we hear that a branch office of the Nagasaki Custom House has recently been established there for the purpose of collecting dues and entering and clearing foreign vessels.

A fatal accident coonrred in the harbour at an early hour on the morning of the 12th July. The steamer Tyne, Captain Hazard, arrived from Shanghai and anchored in the middle of the bay, off Sagarimatsu, and at the time the anchor was let go. a small native schooner was crossing her stern under sail, consequently some three minutes elapsed before the engines could be reversed for the purpose of going astern to straighten out the cable. During this time, i appears, a sampan, sculled by an old native sendo and his young daughter, came slongeide, and had very foolishly been made fast to one of the blades of the propeller. No one on board had the slightest knowledge of the dangerous situation of the sampan and its cooupants, and, of course, as soon as the schooner had cleared her stern. the engines were set in motion, and as would naturally be expected, short work was made of the complete destruction of the fruil craft, and also. unfortunately, of one of its occupants. After making fast his boat, the sendo had, for some purpose or other, gone into the house, and before he could make good his escape, the propeller struck him on the shoulder and inflicted a fearfully deep gash the whole length of his body which must have resulted in almost instant death, as he sank without searcely a struggle The girl, being in the stern of the boat, escaped, and was picked up unhurt. The police were duly notified, and by them the matter was thoroughly investigated, and the body recovered. No blame whatsoever could be attached to any one but the unfortunate boatman, whose knowledge of ships, however limited in other respects, Business is very dull just now, only one ought certainly to have included the fact of the

Then in the 13th century the use of the capsules. Lastly in the Ming dynasty followed the art of slitting the capsules for opium. Let us refer to the accurate and laborious traveller Knempfer. whose writings throw great light on the use of tobacco and opium in Porsis and Java. This admirable traveller and close observer, wont to Persia from Russia A.D. 1682, proceeded to India and Java, visited Siam. Cochin-china and South China, then travelled in Japan and returned to Europe round the Cape in 1694. He supplies the necessary link to explain the introduction of opinm-smoking in connection with tobacco into Formosa. urato and useful an observer in Persia as in ava, and from him we may expect valuable information on opium and tobacco. Dr. Dudgeon desires proof that the Mohammedans introduced into China either the poppy or its juice. - To this it may be answered, first, that the cultivation of the poppy and the art of deriving opium from it are described by Wang Si as Arabian. By Arabia he may perhaps also mean Babylonia and Persia. His word is Tien Fang, "heavenly land," the sacred country of Monammedans. D'Orbigny says that some poppies flower late in the year. It is some one of the c that Wang Si describes. Secondly, Li in the petition that the defendants' bill of sale playing of billiards on Sanday. I could in the history of the Ming dynasty tells us, being peace prevails. Honun wishes to do likewise, easily have explained the grounds for my views in the Imperial service there. Thirdly, Kaempfer's engraving of the Persian tobacco pipe shews how the Chinese in borrowing Mchammedan imelements simplified them. The engraving shows a class vessel (ampulla vitreu) 12 feet high, half full of water, and provided with a long neck. At the month is a brass plate six inches -through which two tubes of brass enter. One is immersed underneath in the water, while the one above it receives a net of tobacco with some charcoal. EXTRACTS.

BRUNO: Ic was only a little lad, Barofoot and brown, With large eyes, wistful and sad, And dark halr waving down. Over the vine clad hills, From the golden Tuscan land, By ollyo groves, and by singing rills With a lute in his little hand. He sang; but his heart was sad

At the heedless hurrying town; He was only a little lad, Barefoot and brown! There were tears in his little voice, He sang and played; To mother had over heard .

The sad sweet songs he made,

But only in dreams to him. On the ying-glad hills, she sang And over sweetest when day grow dim, And the bells at vespors rang. None know the dresms he had, In the friendless pitiless town; He was only a little lad, Barofoot and brown!

F. E. WEATHERLY. THE IMPOSSIBLE GIRL. He offered her a handsome opal ring. "Excuse me," she said, while a blush crept I thank you," she whispered, feelingly. "I 'Camille,' Hamlet,' and 'Miss Moulton: danced around with his pocket book in his hand, and thought what expense men would be saved if all the girls were like this one.

And he sang: I've found me the wife of the future, Then be woke up and ascertained that he had been dreaming. The Impossible Girl has yet to be discovered.
